

this kind of a barrier that I will submit will stop 90 percent of the traffic. And we could even go further and we could put out an RFP and let the private sector bid these miles for security. It is that easy and that simple, and we are dug into an idea that we are going to continue to hire more personnel, grow the size of the Border Patrol, and put our military on the border.

And I will support all those things, if that is the best we have to work with. But this makes far more sense. We can cut the number of Border Patrol we are using now on the border, and we can increase the efficiency of our enforcement. And this wall is an easy wall to dismantle as well. We can take it down just about as easily as we can put it together. In fact, maybe a little more easily.

What it says to Mexico is, you haven't been taking care of your people. You haven't taken care of your government. You have a corrupt form of government. Clean up your act. Clean up your act so people will stay in Mexico, and so they want to go to Mexico. Mr. Fox, fix your country so we can tear down this wall.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I yield back.
